How do I keep my mind from racing so I can pray?

When I'm trying to pray, I can't stop thinking about my to-do list. How can I shut those things out and focus on my prayers?

Most spiritual directors encourage a person to enter gently into solitude and prayer. Real conversation with any friend begins with warm acknowledgment of that friend's presence, so as you sit or kneel, acknowledge that you are in a sacred place and that God is present.

Several techniques can help us find interior silence and solitude. Many people find it helps to sit in a comfortable position and pay close attention to their breathing. Taking slow, deep breaths relaxes our minds and hearts. When repeated, a sacred word like Jesus or Abba can focus our attention and help us let go of the distractions that can so easily crowd our consciousness.

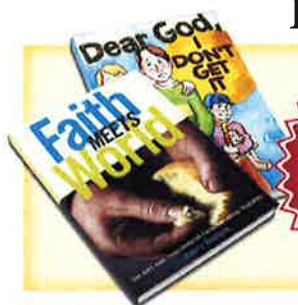

Another technique is to take a few moments to find quiet, then read a passage from Scripture. Many people choose the Gospel passage of the day; others read a Gospel through from beginning to end by reading a short passage each day.

True conversation goes both ways. One way God speaks to us is through the Word. Reading Scripture as part of our conversation with God is a good way to be sure we don't do all the talking.

Ordinary Time

February 23, 2014 ♦ SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (A)

"BUT I SAY TO YOU, LOVE YOUR ENEMIES."

I've never met a person who found this command easy to follow. Some people practice every day and are better at it than others; I've been fortunate to know one or two of them.

Most of us are good at loving in the abstract. As an Irish Catholic, I love the people who continue the troubles in Ireland. As an American, I love those who have attacked our country and those who embrace a different political view.

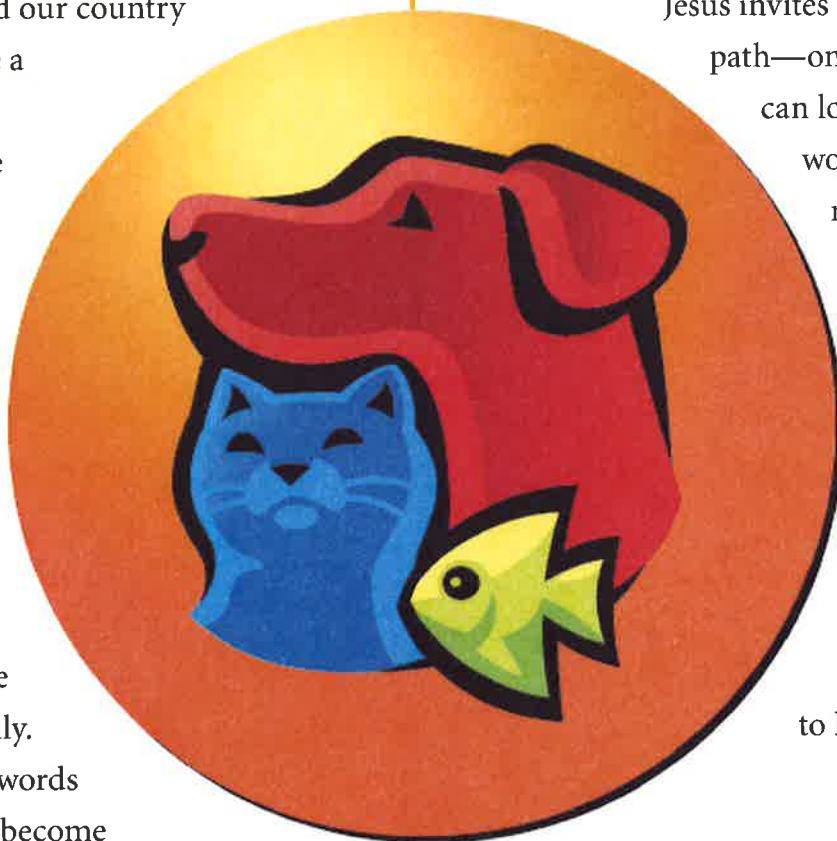

It's pretty easy to love people you don't know. Where I fall down is in the concrete, day-to-day loving. I find it really hard to love the people who don't love or even like me. I find it even harder to love those who have hurt me or members of my family. The difficulty of Jesus' words strike home when they become personal. We come face to face with our own unloving ways and unloving hearts.

This is precisely where the grace of baptism comes into play. It's natural to feel hurt and anger when someone wounds us deeply. It's human to want to return hurt for hurt with words, behaviors, or even fists.

Jesus invites us into a different path—one from which we can love others in their woundedness and receive the love and healing of God for our own wounds. Jesus knows that only the path of love leads to life. Any other path will lead to our eventual destruction. Whom do you need to love today?
