Dedication of the Lateran Basilica

◆ November 9, 2014 (A) ◆

I made a retreat on the shores of Massachusetts not long ago. The shore was rocky, with slabs of granite meeting the ocean. The air was fragrant with flowers and foliage in late August. Birds, bees, and crickets went about their daily business. Surely God is here, I thought as I immersed myself in nature, silence, and prayer. I took a piece of granite from the shore to remind myself of my retreat.

It might seem odd to have a feast day for a church, but our readings today show us that marking God's presence is a time-honored tradition.

When Jacob dreamed of ladders and angels, he took it as a sign of God's presence and built an altar in the place he'd slept.

When Zacchaeus heard Jesus call his name, he climbed down from the tree to welcome Jesus into his home and was moved then and there to give back anything he owed and more.

When we finally recognize the presence of God, we often take special note of the moment with some sign. The sign can be small, like my rock. But in other times, people have built extraordinary places of worship, painted luminous pictures, or sculpted statues of amazing grace.

The Basilica of St. John Lateran, the principal cathedral of Rome (also known as the pope's cathedral) and the baptismal Church of ancient Rome, is a wonderful example of such a sign.

Our focus today is not on the building itself, but on what it represents – the union of the whole people of God gathered with the pope in witness to the presence of God.
